Let your passion inspire the future. By naming Nature Forward as the beneficiary of your estate, you are making an important statement about the quality of life you want for yourself — and for future generations.

Several options exist to make part of Nature Forward part of your legacy. It can be done through your will or revocable trust; your life insurance; or retirement accounts.

By naming Nature Forward as a beneficiary of your estate you will be joining a distinguished list of Nature Forward supporters who are members of the Nature Forward Legacy Society *. We look forward to welcoming you to this exceptional group:

Bequests Through Your Will or Revocable Trust

Naming Nature Forward in your will is an easy way to invest in the future. Here is sample language you can use:

I give to Nature Forward, Inc., a 501 (c) (3) nonprofit incorporated under the District of Columbia and whose headquarters are located in Chevy Chase, Maryland, the sum of $ _____ (or _____% of my residuary estate) for general operating purposes (or a specific designation, program or sanctuary in keeping with our mission).

Our tax identification 501c3 number is: 53-0233715

Gifts of Life Insurance

Life insurance policies pay upon the death of the insured to a named beneficiary. The beneficiary may be an individual, the insured's estate, a trustee under a will or trust agreement, or a charitable organization.

You can name Nature Forward as the beneficiary of a policy insuring your life, or transfer ownership of a paid up policy.

Retirement Accounts

You can also name Nature Forward as the beneficiary of your IRA, 401 (k), or other qualified plan.
