Cruises may involve extensive walking in variable weather conditions over sometimes sandy or uneven terrain.

Adventure Canada Cruises take place far away from hospitals and other institutional medical care and are therefore intended for persons in good health. Passengers who need assistance, special facilities or need to bring medical equipment must disclose this in advance of booking.

Adventure Canada reserves the right to refuse or revoke passage to anyone who, in its sole judgment, is unfit to participate in the Cruise or who endangers their safety or the safety of others, including by failing to follow Adventure Canada health and safety protocols.
